Welcome to Bar Barossa.

This extraordinary venue holds the dreams of its creators – passionate people with a vision of promoting one of the world’s greatest wine regions. It is unashamedly bias, and very closely linked with the personalities behind the many wine labels that you are now surrounded by.

We endeavour to source Barossan produce for our menu, and aim to highlight the best of the Barossa in our widely acclaimed wine list. The stats are amazing! Our wine compendium contains over 250 wines from around 100 Barossa producers, with a staggering 75 Shiraz available. MOA BREWING COMPANY

Moa beer is the beer that comes from Marlborough, which is nice, because mostly Marlborough just makes wine, which is a bit boring. Moa uses the same deep bore water locals use to grow grapes and put out house fires.

Moa Beer is also made the way beer used to be made before everyone started making it differently

Fastidiously handcrafted in the traditional method and rounded off through the use of winemaking techniques, including barrel ageing and bottle fermentation and conditioning (like they do with Champagne). It's quite a time consuming process and not terribly economical.

The Barossa Valley Story.

After establishing the South Australian Company, philanthropist and entrepreneur George Fife Angas employed Johannes Menge, gifted linguist and mineralogist, in the late 1830s to explore the local colony above and below the ground. After his expedition, Johann wrote to George detailing the Barossa as 'The Cream, the Whole Cream and nothing but the Cream'. After this positive advice, George assisted the passage of an entire European community brought from various Prussian provinces including German speaking settlers from Silesia (now part of Poland), to set up a piece of the 'old world' in the 'new world'. Following this movement, the tiny hamlet of Bethany was established in 1842, and was soon followed by other settlements thereafter.

The settlers were orderly, hard working people. They cleared land for mixed farming, built churches and schools and planted small vineyards, some of which have remained in the same family name until this day.

The Barossa we know today, is a 1,970 square kilometer region which encompasses the Barossa Valley and Eden Valley. The region contains four communities including Angaston, Lyndoch, Nuriootpa and Tanunda, and a collection of tiny hamlets in Bethany, Cockatoo Valley, Eden Valley, Greenock, Keyneton, Light Pass, Marananga and Seppeltsfield, Mount Pleasant, Penrice, Rowland Flat, Springton, Stockwell, Truro and Williamstown. This type of settlement is unique in Australia and is a wonderfully preserved enclave of British and Prussian heritage.

Gawler, on the western boundary of the Barossa, was among the first to be proclaimed a township, in 1857, and in 150 years has grown to become one of the Barossa tourism region's biggest regional centre. Similarly Kapunda, on the northern edge of the Barossa tourism region, is renowned for its copper centre and very rich history. The heritage value of these towns is now fiercely protected, with strict limitations on where development can take place.
